17th in line. T-L 4/8/67

Ruby Is Named in Tax Claim

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The federal government has filed a claim of $45,637.43 for back taxes against Jack Ruby, who killed Lee Harvey Oswald. The Warren Commission called Oswald the slayer of President Kennedy.

Ruby died last January of cancer.

The claim, Internal Revenue Service officials said Thursday, is for taxes dating back to 1956 during five separate tax periods.

The service first filed an income tax claim against him for $14,106.37 in 1956. A second claim specifies $16,204.90 in unpaid taxes plus fees and fines of $6,497.99. There were some lesser claims.

There has been no official indication of the size of Ruby's estate, but it is not expected to be large.